

The contact lenses you love are now NET PLASTIC NEUTRAL!

CooperVision® is thrilled to announce that your AquaClear® contact lenses are now net plastic neutral.^{1,2}

That means that for every box of AquaClear® contact lenses you buy, CooperVision® partners with Plastic Bank® to collect and convert an equal amount of plastic through their global network.²

By simply wearing a lens you will love, you are making a positive environmental impact and supporting a brighter future for our planet.

Thank you!

Make a difference with your contact lens choice, and ask us about our net plastic neutral lens offerings at your next visit.

1. AquaClear® Monthly family orders includes product sold and distributed by CooperVision in the US.
2. Net plastic neutrality is established by purchasing credits from Plastic Bank. A credit represents the collection and conversion of one kilogram of plastic that may reach or be destined for waterways. CooperVision purchases credits equal to the weight of plastic in AquaClear® Monthly family orders in a specified time period. AquaClear® Monthly family plastic is determined by the weight of plastic in the blister, the lens, and the secondary package, including laminates, adhesives, and auxiliary inputs (e.g. ink).
